

BCube and Feel: essential elegance

Geometric rigour, aesthetic purity and functionality for two new products by Mamoli Robinetterie

Two new products now enhance the already impressive Mamoli catalogue. The workshops of the historic Milan-based tap company have released BCube and Feel, two new products designed and manufactured to combine aesthetics and functionality in the best tradition of Italian design. Pure lines and geometric rigour are the two aspects shared by the two products and their extremely elegant design. BCube is a continual line that starts with elementary figures to develop and play with the proportion of forms and the interlinking of volumes. The result is rational geometry defined by flat and right-angled surfaces barely blurred by the bevelled angles. A play of alternations achieved through the rounded shape of the delivery mouth: a delicate and pleasing design enhanced by the lever with the same profile. The linear design of Feel is hallmarked by rationality and pure styling, in turn emphasised by the bright, flat surfaces and geometric pattern. The modernist and rationalist charm of the design of Feel ensures an elegant sobriety, which reconciles the purity of minimalism with the needs for complete functionality.
